

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A data recording method for calculating a digital sum value (DSV) corresponding to a proportion of positive data and negative data
5 included in predetermined data ranges, selecting a resync pattern to be inserted between the data ranges according to the DSV, and inserting the selected resync pattern between the data ranges, has 10 a step of selecting a resync pattern that minimizes differences in DSV between the data ranges.